HOW HOSTETTER'S BITTERS CURE DYSPEPSIA .- THE WHOLE STORY IN A NUT-SHELL.—The office of the stomach is to convert the food into a cream-like semi-fluid, called (HYME, dissolving alinent. The CRYME passes from the stomach into the duo enum, or entrance to the CITY COUNCIL.—The regular meeting of bowels, where it is subjected to the action of the

> Now, it is evident that if the great solvent, the gastate juice, is not produced in sufficient quantity, or if the mechanical action of the stomach is not sufficiently brisk, the first process of digest on will be but imperfectly performed. It is also clear that if the liver, which plays such an important part in changing the nourishing portion of the CHYME into the material of the blood, is congested, or in any un. natural cordition, the second process will not be thoroughly accomplished. The result of the two > failures is dyspepsil, complicated with tiliousness. The mode in which HOSTETTER'S BITTERS operate in such c ses is this: They invigorate the the gastric juice, thereby insuring an ample sufficiency of the fluid to completely dissolve the food. They also act upon the nerves of the stomach, causing an accel-ration of the mechanical movement necessary to reduce the food to a homogeneous mass. They also act specifically upon the liver, strengthening it, and so enabling it to produce an ample and regular supply of bile, for the purpose of converting the nutritious particles of the Chyme into of the useless debris.

> In this way HOSTLTTER'S BITTERS curs dyspepsia and liver complaint. The explanation is plain, simple, philosophical and true.
